

3D ANIMATION MEETS FINE ARTS: VISIT TO THE TAMIL NADU MUSIC AND ARTS UNIVERSITY 20 NOVEMBER 2019

Students learning the nuances of fine arts.

First year 3D Animation students of DDU KAUSHAL Kendra, Loyola College visited Tamil Nadu Music and Arts University (TNJMFAU) on 20th November 2019. They got the rare chance to visit the art exhibit of IIIrd Year MFA students at the University.

It was the first time some of the 3D Animation animation students had a chance to observe live portrait of a model. Character designing sketches of the MFA students were very useful for students to understand basics of drawing human body, especially how to shape different characters.

A professor at TNJMFAU showed us his watercolor painting which depicted how the earth can replenish itself with the help of birds. ‘In order to draw a character, you will have to feel the emotions of the subject,’ he says.

Inspiring Art Gallery

The Art Gallery at the University was one another eye opener, which contained art works of the students-mostly portraits of themselves, their dreams or their ambition. The works were deeply connected with its artist as drawing serves as a language that can express your emotion or feeling with just simple dots & lines.
